Welcome Messages

This year's Psynergy congress focuses on the timely issues involving the field of psychology and the current expectations of the society regarding psychologists. Specifically, the psychology licensure examination is at the center of this year's congress. Moreover, discussions on the different fields of psychology specifically the emerging fields will be explored. This is also a good opportunity to establish connections and camaraderie among advocates of human behavior.

Sharing the passion to strengthen psychology as a profession, we invite you to be inspired and excited as you participate in the rich discussions of our admired resource speakers and in the interesting studies conducted by psychology students from different universities and colleges.

In behalf of Far Eastern University headed by our esteemed and dynamic president, Dr. Lydia B. Echaz, my heartfelt gratitude to the organizers for choosing our school as the venue for this year's students' congress. The fruitful and informative discussions that will take place in this year's congress will definitely increase our awareness regarding the field and empower ourselves as we fulfill our roles as professional psychologists.

Mabuhay!

GRACIELA A. LINTAG

Program Head, Department of Psychology
Far Eastern University

Notes:

On behalf of the Pambansang Samahan sa Sikolohiyang Pilipino (PSSP), it is my pleasure to welcome all participants to PSYnergy: The Fifth All Psychology Students' Congress on the theme: “Strengthening Psychology as a Profession”.

During the congress, we look forward to very meaningful discussions on how psychology can make even more meaningful contributions to Philippine society and the lives of its citizens. The complexities of social life, compounded by technology advancements and the greater integration of global economies, make the psychological dimension ever more critical to human and social development. Being the psychologists of the future, it is particularly important that psychology students fully engage themselves in tackling emerging issues facing the profession of psychology today and in the coming years. The perspectives and tools of the past have prepared us for the present but can only be a first step to the future. Approaches better attuned to the rapidly evolving human condition will need to be conceptualized and systematically studied.

We thank you for being forward-looking and in solidarity with the rest of your peers who are studying psychology. We are confident that the future of the field as a profession is secure with the dynamism we continually see from the psychology students of today.

I congratulate all the organizers and I wish you all participants' meaningful and productive congress. Thank you.
